RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

I study how personal and historical crises shape identity, emotion, and well-being through stories of lived experience. My work focuses on narrative identity, collective memory, and the ways emotion and storytelling shape meaning-making in both personal and collective contexts.

2021 – Present

Graduate Researcher

Study of Lives Research Group, Northwestern University

P.I.: Dan. P. McAdams, Ph.D.

- Lead mixed-methods projects on how major historical events (e.g., war, disasters, social movements) are integrated into autobiographical life stories and how these narratives relate to resilience and well-being.
- Apply phronetic iterative analysis to integrate theory-driven coding with inductive insights from narrative texts.
- Use multilevel modeling and other quantitative methods (R, SPSS) to examine how narrative framing predicts longitudinal psychological and health outcomes.
- Collaborate with international partners (Denmark) to analyze 1,200+ older-adult narratives using topic modeling and narrative coding.
- Established coding manuals and interrater reliability for a 9-year longitudinal dataset on life narratives.

- 2023 – Present Graduate Researcher
The Life-Span Development Laboratory, Northwestern University
P.I.: Claudia Haase, Ph.D.
- Design and conduct studies of emotional dynamics in marital conflict, focusing on distinctions between emotional and issue resolution.
 - Integrate thematic conversation coding with behavioral and physiological measures; apply multilevel models to capture intra- and interpersonal processes.
- 2020 – 2021 Research Assistant Intern
Study of Lives Research Group, Northwestern University
P.I.: Dan. P. McAdams, Ph.D.
- Contributed to the Foley Longitudinal Study of Adulthood (9-year project on narrative identity in midlife).
 - Revised coding manuals for personal growth and exploratory processing; coded 237 life-story interviews with reliability checks
- 2020 – 2021 Honors Thesis Researcher
Bilkent University
P.I.: Athanasios Mouratidis. Ph.D.
- Designed and carried out an independent honors thesis testing whether satisfaction and frustration of basic psychological needs operate as bipolar constructs within Self-Determination Theory.
 - Developed a novel Implicit Association Test (IAT) to assess implicit associations between need satisfaction and frustration.
- 2020 – 2021 Research Assistant
Cognitive Computational Neuroscience Laboratory, Bilkent University
P.I.: Burcu Ayşen Ürgen. Ph.D.
- Investigated neural processing of biological motion through behavioral and fMRI paradigms.
 - Assisted in drafting a grant proposal submitted to The Scientific and Technological Research Council of Turkey (TÜBİTAK).
- 2018 – 2020 Research Assistant
Social Psychology Laboratory, Bilkent University
P.I.: Gül Günaydın, Ph.D
- Developed Turkish-language resources for Language Style Matching research.
 - Coded videotaped couple interactions for responsiveness and attachment in close relationships.
